Training Academy Launch

It was a busy morning at Thompson Group Head Office today, with the launch of our updated Training Academy.

In addition to a tour of our recently refurbished practical training suite and classroom based demonstration suites; our engineers were also given an overview of the brand new Thompson Group online learning facility.

This purpose built, secure online portal will provide every member of our team with access to a blend of in-house, third party & online learning resources suited to their role & career ambitions.

Working with our Senior Engineers, Supply Chain Partners and specialist training providers, every member of the team; from our Apprentices through to the MD; will undertake a set number of hours training every year to progress their individual professional development and continually update their industry knowledge, health and safety and related skills.
